Children help with Olympic build-up

THESE two youngsters held a little piece of history in their hands this week – the torches from both the 1948 and the 1956 Olympics.

Valentina Saavdra and Luke Pitchin, who attend Lordship Lane Primary, took part in a march carrying the Olympic flame through the streets of London in the build-up to the Olympic Games1 next year.

The youngsters also took part in a mini-Olympics at the Boundary Playing Fields.

MORE RIOTS 'JUST A MATTER OF TIME'

By Anna Dubuis

A GANG mediator says more riots are likely unless the right support is given to young people.

Ken Hinds, a conflict engagement specialist, said prison sentences would not solve the underlying causes of the riots. "Young people will come out of jail and will feel hard done by. People need to answer for their crimes but they need support and mentoring that will assist them.

"In prison, people do not get help and support. Nothing good happens in prison. You just keep people out of society for some time. It is sweeping the issues under the carpet."

Mr Hinds, a former adviser for Trident, the Metropolitan Police's operation to tackle gun crime, is calling on the council for hands-on action that will engage with youths in the area.

"Look at it like the fizz in a bottle of champagne," he said. "People got rid of their immediate frustrations and the fizz is now gone, but they put a cork on it and the pressure is still there. It is only a matter of time before it explodes again, unless the right thing is done."

"The uprising was a message to establishment from young people to say they are fed up of the use of stop and search, they are fed up of a nonsensical educational system that is for the few and not for the many, and they are fed up of growing up in a family where a whole generation has not worked. They are telling the authorities to fix up."

Warning: Ken Hinds

He says that many of those involved in the looting in August were "opportunists" who got caught up in the moment and did not consider the consequences of their actions.

"Youngsters have grown up to believe they are heroes. They have a warped sense of success – they think that by going to jail they will come out successful, but all they'll get is a criminal record. If you give people the right to do as they please they will do so. We need safeguards."

"We need people who are respected by these young people to be out there on the streets stopping them from getting into trouble. There needs to be a safe place where they can go and talk to someone."

A Ministry Of Justice spokesman said: "Custody is used for the most serious or persistent young offenders where it is necessary to protect the public. Our justice system is undergoing radical changes to ensure proper, robust punishment and the reduction of reoffending."

"We are making our jails places of hard work, getting criminals off drugs and alcohol, toughening community sentences and making offenders pay back to victims and communities."

Leaders of the future wanted as role models in our schools

ONE of the capital's most dynamic start-up charities is extending its operations into Tottenham and is on the look out for volunteers.

City Year London, which is based in Islington, specialises in education and community action projects tailored to help the most deprived neighbourhoods.

It places a diverse team of 18 to 25-year-olds in schools for a year-long programme of tutoring, mentoring and community action activity.

The goal is to provide positive role models and "near-peer" mentoring support to help children break the all-too-familiar cycle of low aspiration and underachievement.

Its move into Tottenham will begin by developing a partnership with a local primary school, yet to be confirmed.

CYL is now looking for inspirational young people to join its team to inspire children to develop a love of learning.

The charity's chief executive, Sophie Livingstone, said: "The riots across London this summer highlight the growing and urgent need for more positive role models and mentors to work with children from an early age.

Making a difference:
City Year London
Volunteers will help
at a primary school

"Too many children in London have low aspirations and get caught in the downward spiral of underachievement and poverty because they lack the right leadership and guidance to nudge them to make the right choices in life.

"Our volunteers are highly motivated, energetic and driven by a desire to help children. They are cool people for the children to learn from.

"There is a depressing absence of positive male role models in many children's lives so we are especially keen to recruit more young men to work with us. It's tough being a City Year corps member so we are looking for young men that are man enough to be role models, day in day out."

The news has been welcomed by Tottenham MP David Lammy, who hosted a Parliamentary reception for the charity.

He said: "City Year London's move into Tottenham could not come at a more important time. The presence of inspirational volunteers will be a big boost to children, who will benefit from their leadership and mentoring. The wider local community will be lit up by City Year's iconic red jackets.

"There is a chronic shortage of young male role models in our neighbourhoods so I back City Year's call for men especially to step up and get involved."

Volunteers work full-time to support teachers inside and outside the classroom. They run breakfast and after school activities and are responsible for providing a range of support like intensive literacy and numeracy classes, to games that create a safe and positive school atmosphere.

In return they receive one day per week dedicated leadership development, £100 per week for expenses, eligibility for £1,000 Citizen Service Award, all travel expenses covered and networking opportunities with corporate sponsors.

The deadline for applications to join City Year is November 25. To apply visit www.cityyear.org.uk

Taking on the torch: Guney Coban and Yasmin Uwakwe from Oakthorpe Primary

Youngsters do their bit for the Olympic spirit

ONLOOKERS may have feared a return to the dark days of the August riots as they watched groups of children marching through the streets of north London wielding flaming torches.

Thankfully there was no need for water cannons, as it was all part of this month's city-wide Olympic torch relay, which reached this borough last Friday.

As part of Transport for London's Walk To School Month, the World October Walk saw pupils from Lordship Lane Primary School, in Ellenborough Road, Wood Green, hand over the 1948 and 1956 Olympic torches to students from Oakthorpe Primary School, in Tile Kiln Lane, Palmers Green, at the Boundary Playing Fields before participating in a mini-Olympics.

The pupils then marched the flames across the borough to Vita Et Pax Preparatory School in Southgate, accompanied by torch bearer John Greatrex, gold medallist rower Mark Hunter MBE and youth athlete Victoria Ohuruogu.

During the next four weeks, about 30,000 children from every London borough will take part in the event.

Changing point: Haringey and Enfield schools meet for the handover

Sporting life: Youngsters took part in a mini-Olympics, including running, boxing and sack races

NEWS

Taking to the street: Councillor Gail Engert and Lynne Featherstone MP on Priory Road, celebrating the start of work on the new pedestrian crossing

Lib Dems hail a win on crossing

LIBERAL Democrats are claiming campaign victory after work began on a zebra crossing in Muswell Hill.

While MP Lynne Featherstone was a councillor seven years ago, she and colleague Gail Engert began the calls for a crossing in Priory Road following a series of accidents.

Now a pedestrian crossing will be installed on Priory Road along with associated works, including raised entry tables at the junctions of Park Avenue North and Park Avenue South to improve safety for pedestrians.

Ms Engert said: "I'm glad that local residents will soon have the much-needed zebra crossing to improve safety on this busy road. It is a testament to local residents' persistence that we have continued with our campaign for so long."

However, Haringey Council said the works were a result of the Greenways Smarter Travel Plan, rather than a Lib Dem campaign.

Nilgun Canver, Cabinet Member for the Environment, said: "The study identified that crossing Priory Road from either Park Avenue North or Park Avenue South was difficult as Priory Road is a busy A-road.

"Therefore, it was recommended that a shared cycle/pedestrian use zebra crossing should be introduced on Priory Road, hence our proposal."

Dancers hope for Ruff start to Olympics

Eyes on the prize: The Ruff Diamond dance group is bidding to perform in the Olympics opening ceremony

By Anna Dubuis

A DANCE group from Edmonton has applied to perform at the London 2012 Olympic Games opening ceremony.

Ruff Diamond represented Enfield at The Notting Hill Carnival for 15 years. They are hoping to take part in the main ceremony and the eight-week touring programme leading up to the Games next summer.

Organiser Ken Hinds described the group as "one of the jewels in the Edmonton crown".

In light of the recent uprisings, Mr Hinds said that the dance group offers young people an alternative to hanging out on the streets.

"We are here to learn and develop. Young people speak with elders if they have a problem. We act on their concerns so they are less likely to take matters into their own hands," he said.

When they join, individuals agree to Ruff Diamond's Ten Commandments. Mr Hinds said these encourage "spreading the peace and respecting each other".

Ruff Diamonds perform "soca" dancing, which stands for "sounds of the Caribbean and Africa". Despite this, people from any background are encouraged to take part, and of any age – their youngest dancer is three and the oldest 85.

The group was created to get people in the Edmonton area involved in the community through performing arts, from dancing at events to helping make the elaborate costumes which are one of the highlights at many carnivals.

Clearing up after the riots: The scene in Tottenham

Regeneration taskforce to be reckoned with

Leading developer to spearhead rebuilding plans for riot-hit area

PROPERTY developer Sir Stuart Lipton has been appointed to lead a taskforce charged with regenerating Tottenham.

Boris Johnson and the government have announced a £20million funding pot for Tottenham and Croydon in south London following the riots in August.

A taskforce has been established focusing specifically on regeneration in each of these areas, which had been identified already by Mr Johnson, the Mayor of London, as priority zones.

They will bring together borough councils, business people and the community, and the Tottenham taskforce will be headed by Sir Stuart to help drive investment.

They will work towards creating masterplans for improvements in transport infrastructure, buying up and rebuilding affected properties and funding business rate relief, as well as supporting employment.

Mr Johnson said: "This is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to build on the momentum of rebuilding and repair work and turn it into a permanent regeneration of two long-neglected areas of the capital.

"Following the appalling destruction we witnessed in August, these taskforces will harness the expertise of business leaders, Haringey and Croydon councils and local people to set the course of the future for their areas."

Sir Stuart described the new role as "an exciting challenge", while Haringey Council's lead member for regeneration, Alan Strickland, also welcomed the news.

He said: "This is great news and we look forward to working closely with Sir Stuart on making Tottenham better than ever before. We intend this project to be a leading example of urban regeneration and having Sir Stuart on board will help us realise that ambition."

It is anticipated the groups will report back to Mr Johnson with their final proposals for regeneration by the end of the year.

Coffee treat as libraries boost cancer charity

HARINGEY libraries have raised hundreds of pounds for Macmillan Cancer Support during the charity's annual World's Biggest Coffee Morning.

All libraries in the borough staged events, along with Bruce Castle Museum.

Volunteers helped out at the event at Coombes Croft Library and at St Ann's Library the Coffee Morning turned into a Coffee Day as they found that visitors were enjoying the opportunity to get a hot drink and chat to staff.

The spread at Wood Green Library, sponsored by Marks & Spencer, included fresh coffee, fairy cakes, cinnamon swirls, flapjacks and cup cakes, with many of these treats baked by staff and friends.

DAWSON'S PAIN AT INJURY WOE

By Dominique Stafford

MICHAEL Dawson has revealed his frustration after suffering a minor setback in his recovery from an Achilles injury.

The Tottenham Hotspur defender suffered the injury in the early weeks of the season and was initially expected to be out for two months, only for hopes to be raised that he would be able to return ahead of schedule when he discarded his protective boot and started jogging.

However, Dawson was quick to quash those suggestions as he admitted that he had been told to stop jogging and return to gym work instead.

He said: "I was outside earlier in the week, but the Achilles was still a little sore so I've had to take a step back and concentrate on working in the gym."

"The physios aren't too worried as I've been in a protective boot for a couple of weeks and I need to strengthen it up. I'm obviously a little down, but you never know with injuries and rehab, so we'll wait and see."

"It's so disappointing to be injured. I was with Tom Huddlestone in the gym – he's also out and it's a hard time for a footballer. It's the side of the game that people don't see."

Meanwhile, manager Harry Redknapp is adamant that Emmanuel Adebayor will have to take a pay cut if he wants to join Spurs on a permanent basis.

The striker has impressed since arriving at White Hart Lane on a season-long loan from Manchester City, but Redknapp has warned him that he will have to accept a pay cut if he wants to remain at the club beyond the end of this campaign.

"If Emmanuel maintains his current form I would love to keep him," the manager said, "but his wages are going to be a major stumbling block."

"I have no idea how much we are paying towards his wages at the moment as the chairman [Daniel Levy] deals with those issues, but I suspect they are massively subsidised by City."

"The only way we can realistically get a deal done is if Emmanuel is prepared to take a substantial pay cut and put his football before money."

Dominant Boro' forced to make do with a point

HARINGEY Borough were left frustrated by their inability to take full advantage of a dominant second-half display as they had to settle for a 1-1 draw from Saturday's trip to Berkhamsted in the Molten Spartan Premier Division.

The opening 45 minutes proved to be an end-to-end affair with both sides having numerous chances, and the hosts took the lead on 16 minutes when Matt Wardle rose unchallenged at the far post to head home a free-kick.

But Borough hit back well and grabbed an equaliser shortly before the interval as Richard Worrell cut in from the right and unleashed a powerful drive which keeper Edward Farmer was unable to prevent from crossing the line.

The second half proved to be far more one-sided as the visitors took over complete control of the game.

However, some wayward finishing meant that they were unable to turn their pressure into goals – with Mario Georgiou squandering their best opportunity to seal victory when he completely miskicked in front of an empty net.

Meanwhile, goals from Worrell, Darrell Cox and Dimitri Stratis gave Borough a 3-0 win over London Tigers last Tuesday.

Due to host Holmersdale last night in the London Senior Cup, Haringey Borough return to league action on Saturday when they host Broxbourne Borough (3pm).
